Deja Martin pushes for success, works for future

By Suzanne Bardwell

Deja Martin is a very busy scholar-athlete. The varsity cheer captain is a member of the National Honor Society, serves as the student council's secretary and is a 4-year standout member of the volleyball and track teams. She also participated in powerlifting for two years.

Martin said that her proudest GHS achievement is being named to the Volleyball All Academic First Team.

"It shows that you don't have to be just an athlete, or student," Martin said. "It's about being able to handle whatever is thrown at you and becoming successful at both, which is the true definition of a student-athlete."

The proud 13-year Bear says that being a part of Bear tradition has impacted her in several ways.

"It helped prepare me for many life situations," Martin said. "In Gladewater you don't hear much about the African-American students unless it's a sport-like event. I have been underestimated multiple times in and outside of school, but one thing about being a Bear is that it has taught me that nobody can stop you from succeeding but yourself."

And little seems to have stopped this powerhouse. She has been a 2-year regional track finalist for the 4x1 and 4x2 relays and her track coach throughout high school knows where her success comes from.

"Deja is a very disciplined and respectful young lady," track coach Kelly Berry said. "The thing that stands out is her work ethic and determination to succeed. On top of her being a 2-sport athlete and cheerleader, she has always had a job outside of school working 20 plus hours a week"

Her peers, teachers and even community members have recognized Martin's leadership and character in a variety of

In 2017 Martin was chosen as a Homecoming Duchess and in 2019 was named Most Outstanding Student in Spotlight on GHS. She also was chosen and sponsored by the Gladewater Rotary Club to attend RYLA at a leadership retreat. Martin says there are many people who have impacted her success.

Rep. Dean gets key committee assignments

Speaker of the House Dade Phelan last week named committee assignments for the 87th Legislative Session and Representative Jay Dean was asked to serve on the Committee on Appropriations, the Committee on Environmental Regulation, and the Committee on Local & Consent Calendars.

Per the rules of the Texas House, the Appropriations

Committee has jurisdiction over the state budgeting process; the Environmental Regulation Committee has jurisdiction over state regulations governing air, land, and water, including oversight of the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ); and the Local and Consent Calendars Committee determines floor consideration of bills and resolutions that have been recommended as local and uncontested matters.

After learning of the committee assignments, Dean said, "I want to especially thank Speaker Phelan for asking me to once again serve on the Appropriations Committee and Local & Consent Committee, as well as the Environmental Regulation Committee. It is clear Speaker Phelan carefully considered each member's skillset and expertise in these committee assignments. I know my committees especially Appropriations and Environmental Regulation -- will draw on my experience both in local government and as a small business owner.

"This is an especially critical year for our state budget. We have a budget gap to close in our supplemental appropriations from last biennium as well as limited revenue to allocate wisely in this upcoming biennium. As always, I will be committed to a conservative, balanced budget that uses every taxpayer dollar wisely."

Rep. Dean was elected to the Texas House of Representatives in 2016.

With this background, Dean brings decades of experience in budgeting, resource allocation, and government operations.

COVID-19 vaccine pace rises

The number of people in Texas hospitalized with COVID-19 has declined more than 28 percent in the past month, according to the Texas Department of Health Services. As of Feb. 7, Texas hospitals were treating 9,957 COVID-19 patients, down from nearly 14,000 a month ago. The number of new cases in the past week was 123,239 — a 22 percent drop from the record high of 158,922 the week of Jan. 10, according to the Coronavirus Resource Center at Johns Hopkins University.

At the same time new cases and hospitalizations were decreasing, the number of Texans getting their first dose of vaccine crossed the 2.3 million mark as of Sunday, according to TDHS. That's 700,000 more initial shots in a week. Those who are now fully vaccinated reached 733,287 as of Sunday.

The state received 401,750 first doses from the federal government this week, which are going out to 358 providers in 135 counties. That includes 85 hub providers, according to TDHS.

Not everyone is on board to receive vaccine

About one-third of Texans polled in a recent statewide survey by the University of Houston Hobby School of Public Affairs say they are unlikely to get the COVID-19 vaccine when it becomes available. More than one out of five respondents were adamant they will not receive the vaccine.

Kirk P. Watson, founding dean of the Hobby School, said he hopes the survey will help public health officials address concerns of those unwilling to be vaccinated.

"More than 60% of people who are hesitant to be immunized had concerns about potential side effects and worried that the vaccine is too new," Watson said in a news release. "Understanding why people resist immunization is an important step in reaching herd immunity."

Most of those polled who say they are certain or likely to refuse vaccination asserted they don't trust the government or pharmaceutical companies to ensure the vaccine is safe. Health experts say that between 70% and 90% of the population must be vaccinated to achieve herd immunity, according to the press release.

On the flip side, more than 40% of Texans say they will get the vaccine when available, or they have already gotten at least one dose, while 18% said they would probably get it.

Abbott gets behind rural broadband expansion

Gov. Greg Abbott made expanded broadband service an emergency item during the current legislative session, saying it is necessary for providing telemedicine care to patients regardless of where they live, and for improving educational access.

"From medicine to education to business, broadband access is not a luxury — it is an essential tool that must be available for all Texans," Abbott said in his State of the State address last week.

As previously reported, a pair of lawmakers intend to file legislation aimed at expanding critical broadband services throughout the state. Sen. Robert Nichols, R-Jacksonville, and Rep. Trent Ashby, R-Lufkin, are calling for creation of a statewide broadband plan no later than a year after enabling legislation is passed.

Finally...

Friends and neighbors, if you are blessed enough to have your Mom still in your life stop right now and thank the good Lord. If you had a mother who loved you and raised you, with at least moderate success, thank the Lord...but don't forget to thank your Momma too. After all, if you are anything like me, she probably earned those thanks by the ton.

If it is impossible to give her your gratitude, thank her anyway. I talk to my Dad often and he claimed his heavenly mansion in 2010. My Daddy's voice still resonates in my actions and occasionally in my humor, and yep, sometimes in my temper and where I draw the line in life.

My mother went to visit my brother about a year and a half ago. She was supposed to stay six months then come home to our house. The pandemic changed everything. She is 93 and time is swiftly passing, her hearing is limited and her eyesight almost gone. Yet she is still a bit independent, with a walker (and iPad) in tow, feisty and stubborn. I inherited that stubborn streak for sure.

I started quarantining at home the week before Christmas to go see her before Jan. 1. Instead it was a month later after my 7+-hour I-20/ US 84W Cannonball Run that the trip was possible. My old Buick may have been abused by dogs, hail, tree limbs and one hit and scratch driver, but that little sucker can still get me where I need to go...

Suzanne Bardwell

without a car payment. (I keep telling myself that as I look longingly at muscle cars I have outgrown...I do love a fast car, or maybe, just maybe a used luxury SUV that I might be able to swing if we ever get through this pandeconomy).

In the last month or so I haven't gone anywhere. ANYWHERE! I have learned the art of online shopping and pick up. I have been sick, sick, sick and tested for COVID three times. Negative, negative, negative. And I was getting negative too. After other kinds of tests and doctor appointments later, I decided that as long as I wasn't dying or contagious I had to see my Momma. And so, here I am, in the middle of a Lubbock cotton field, sitting beside her watching the Super Bowl (chalk one up for the old guy), while working (some things never change). And I have to tell you, it feels so good...just to sit by my Momma.

I came bearing so many Christmas gifts that I looked like Santa on steroids. We haven't opened them yet. Tomorrow is another deadline day for me, but I will find the time to pamper my Mom while I am here and tell her how much I love her.

Because Clark Kent and I work with the public, and our schedule is erratic, and Mom is fragile, I will say goodbye at the end of the week and tell her I love her one more time and thank the Lord again that she is my mother. I will also thank my stalwart brother and his sweet wife for taking such good care of our Momma, and then I will head back to my jam-packed life. I am sure I will cry at least to Post, maybe all the way to Ranger, but this week with Mom was worth every bit of testing, quarantining, doctor visits, waiting and driving the long racetrack to Raider Land.

That tiny woman is one of the strongest people I have ever known. Now others have to be strong for her in ways that she no longer can be. But that steel backbone is still there. I hope I inherited her grit and grow to have her grace as I age...not an easy thing to do but I have a pretty dog gone good role model.

I will just get back in time to spend Valentine's with my childhood sweetheart...on another deadline. And frankly, I am very thankful for my hubby and our work as well.

Stop sometime this week and think about the people and things you love most in this life. I bet it is a pretty long list. That is a lot to be grateful for. No matter what is happening in our lives there is a list a mile long of good things we have been blessed with. We just have to take the time to be grateful. You know why I know that? My Momma told me so.

THE ECONOMIS

Moving and Working

The pandemic created upheaval in multiple areas of Americans' lives last year, including where they live and how they work. The overall volume of moves was down last year due to the complexity created by the virus, but the patterns were both enlightening and harbingers of things to come. While the US population is always mobile in response to economic conditions and preferences, a recent survey by Hire a Helper found that about a quarter of 2020 moves were related to COVID-19, with the most commonly cited reasons being (1) escaping the worst of the pandemic, (2) losing a job or income, and (3) sheltering- survey noted above found that, in-place with or taking care of

Much of this movement has been from the densest cities to more affordable areas. Data from U-Haul shows that Tennessee had the largest net gain based on one-way truck movements, followed by Texas and Florida. Texas has ranked first or second for the past five years, due largely to a healthy economy. Arizona, Colorado, Missouri, Nevada, and Georgia also ranked highly, while Massachusetts, New Jersey, Illinois, and California fell at the other end of the spectrum.

Another reason has emerged for relocating during the pandemic – the flexibility of working from home. As technology fosters jobs largely independent of specific locations, many are rethinking where they want to live. The of those moving in 2020 due to COVID-19, 28% indicated that they no longer had to be close to work. Another study found that 14-23 million Americans planned to move due to expanded options for working virtually.

Whether these trends in relocations continue in the future will be partially driven by remote work policies following the pandemic. While there were many concerns over employee productivity with remote work, 83% of employers reported that the shift to remote work had been successful for their companies in a December PwC survey. More than half noted that average worker productivity actually

While less than one in five executives indicated that they wanted to return to the same prepandemic office structure, even fewer were willing to abandon the office entirely. Many corporations are considering hybrid workplaces, where employees split time between the office and home. Businesses are also considering downsizing space in some high-demand locations and opening satellite offices to accommodate employees' desires to live in less-congested, lowercost cities. The number of square feet per employee may increase to accommodate safety concerns in the "new normal."

The necessity of increasing flexibility during the pandemic is likely to yield greater creativity in how offices operate in the future. There are benefits for companies and employees, and technology will emerge to enable greater optimization for all.

DETERMINING RIGHT AND WRONG

When determining the rightness or wrongness of a question or practice in religion, how do you make your determination? Do you make your determination by the popularity of it? Must we "feel the pulse" of the church? Must we poll preachers, commentators, and scholars? Do you determine the rightness or wrongness of what the preacher preaches by the acceptability by the audience? If the majority of the church dislikes a course of work, or a decision made by its leadership i. e. its elders, do you conclude that the work is not good, and that they are poor and disqualified leaders?

Friends, do you see the fallacy in such a course? The Word of God is lost sight of! It ceases to be the standard we must follow! The truth is, the majority nor the minority determines a thing to be right or wrong, but God's Word does! We do not determine a thing to be right or wrong by the popularity of it.

There were less than ten righteous people found in the city of Sodom (Gen. 18: 20-33). There were only eight righteous people in the world when the flood came (Gen. 7: 13; 1 Pet. 3: 20). There were only two Israelites, Joshua and Caleb, of the twelve spies sent to spy out the land, permitted to enter the land of Canaan (Gen. 14: 30, 38). Therefore, when someone ridicules you because you aligned with the minority, don't be alarmed.

Don't determine to go along with the majority because everyone is doing it, until you are sure you know what it is that everyone is doing! Don't determine a thing right or wrong, until first, you have searched the Scriptures and found out whether the thing is so. (Acts 17: 11). William Jennings Bryant once said: "Never be afraid to stand with the minority which is right, for the minority which is right will one day be the majority; always be afraid to stand with the majority which is wrong, for the majority which is wrong will one day be the minority." Think on these things.

Gladewater ISD trustees hear TAP Report

By Suzanne Bardwell Gladewater Trustees met Monday with a public hearing preceding the regularly scheduled monthly meeting over GISD's Texas Academic Performance Report for the 2019-20 school year. Due to the pandemic the Texas Education Agency has opted not to rate districts declaring a state of disaster.

"Academically, we are pleased with the job our teachers have done this year to help fill learning gaps that resulted from the lengthy school closure last spring," Asst. Supt. Dr. Cliff Lightfoot said. "The effects of the pandemic will be lasting, but we are encouraged with the progress our students have made this year in spite of the obstacles. We are especially excited about the growth of our primary and elementary students in reading and math as measured by local curriculum-based assessments."

Trustees approved a contract with Pitney Bowes for a five year lease for postage equipment for a total cost of $8,078.80 to be paid quarterly at a cost of $403.74.

Supt. Sedric Clark reported that appraisals were being sought for existing district properties that may eventually be for sale in the future. Election officials for the May 1 board of trustees election were approved with Judy Van Houten named early voting clerk and Marsha Valdetero presiding judge and Glenn Hodges alternate presiding judge at City Hall on the day of the election. GISD will share election officials with the city due to the joint election agenda. Two places are open on the school board. Place 6 with incumbent Jamie Robertson running for re-election and Place 7 George Glenn who has chosen not to pursue reelection. Jeff Cook has filed to run for that position. Filing for school board positions ends Feb. 12 at 5 p.m. and may be done at the GISD Admin Office on the Broadway Campus. If there are no opposing candidates the school board election will be canceled. If held, the election costs approximately $3,500.

GISD administrator contracts were approved with 2 year term extensions for Kim Chatman, Kelly Clower, Derrick Floyd, Kamisha Floyd, Bruce Head, Glenda Hickey, Kerry Hradecky, Amanda Langford, Chris Langford. Rebecca Lanham and Dr. Cliff Lightfoot.

The board also voted to renew CNB as GISD's official depository with Jon Keller abstaining. Trustees David Floyd and George Glenn

The board accepted the resignations of second grade teacher Constance Rhoades and second grade special education teacher Gloria Knight.

Upshur County records 49 COVID-related deaths

By Phillip Williams

The state has designated two pharmacies in Upshur County as aproved dispensaries for the COVID-19 vaccine, and the county has recorded 49 stateconfirmed COVID-19 deaths as of Monday, said County Emergency Management Coordinator Marc Nichols.

He said county residents wanting the vaccine should contact Med-Shop Pharmacy in Gilmer or Divine Grace Pharmacy in Diana community to make an appointment, but that he was unsure either would receive a shipment of vaccine this week. The county requested the vaccines be sent through the two drug stores, Nichols said.

As of Monday afternoon, the Texas Department of State Health Services reported that Upshur County had 1,217 confirmed COVID cases, 1,797 "probable" cases, 522 active cases, and 2,443 recoveries from the disease, said Nichols.

The "probable" cases are based on swab tests with rapidlyreturned results, which have not been analyzed by a laboratory, he said. U.S. Sen. Rand Paul (R-Kentucky), who is a medical doctor, recently said 30 to 40% of those type tests falsely show someone testing positive for COVID.

Nichols said the rate of increase of the disease in Upshur has stabilized somewhat, which he termed a good sign. He urged residents continue to observe the precautions of hand washing, social distancing and wearing masks.

The University of Texas Health Science Center at Tyler (UTHSCT) has a Diabetes Prevention Program, "Prevent T2," that has received official, full recognition certification from the Centers for Disease Control's (CDC) Diabetes Prevention Recognition Program (DPRP) for effectively delivering a quality, evidence-based program that meets CDC standards.

The program is led by certified lifestyle change coaches who work with participants for an entire year, providing support to teach them how to eat healthy, add physical activity to their routines, manage stress, stay motivated and solve problems that can get in the way of their health goals. At home this season the Lions have gone 10-1 and are 7-7 on the road. Thus far they have put up q,450 point, while allowing 1,231.

Bears bomb Rebels, 66-29

Gladewater's Kollin Lewis dropped 18 on the Rebels and Tyrone Maddox netted 15 as the Bears blasted Ore City 66-29 Friday night.

The game started slow for Gladewater with the Rebels keeping pace in the first period. Lewis and company turned up the heat, out scoring OC in the second period 21-3 for a 36-13 halftime lead. With 9 points from K'havia Reese, 8 from DJ Allen, Nick Lincoln 6, and Micheal Lewis 4, the Bears pulled away and never looked back.

Reese put 24 on the Rebels just two day prior in route to a 71-45 win in Ore City. In that game Maddox added 17 as Allen and Lewis each dropped 14. Lincoln had 2. Gladewater began the unusual three game week with a fall to White Oak 35-59.

The Roughnecks held a slim lead going into the half before opening things up in the second. White Oak needed this win to have any chance of challenging Gladewater for the District Championship.

She says that her mentors were harder on her than other athletes and students because they saw something in her no one else did.

"Coach Mann gave me the confidence and mindset of 'if you're gonna do something you have to be the best at it", Martin said. "Coach Mann turned me into an overachiever, I made it my mission to conquer my competition."

She says that with her small size she committed to no one outworking her.

"Mrs. Leslie helped me understand not every situation needs a reaction and it is important how you carry yourself as a young woman," Martin said. "Mrs. Leslie passed away several years back, but when she was here you would never see her down. She explained multiple times how it might seem like no one is watching but truly everyone is waiting for you to slip up."

Martin said that Coach Karlie

"Despite being a student and athlete for her, she always took it twice as hard on me," Martin said. "She showed me there are no handouts in this world and that I will have to work for anything I want, even if it was just on the court or a passing grade on a test."

Martin says that her mentors made a great difference in who she is and who she is becoming.

"Together they are building me into a well-respected, independent go-getter, which I am very thankful for," she said.

Martin says that the book "The Help" is a book that also impacted her greatly and made her consider her place in the world.

"The Help' lets me put myself into the book and helps me get an understanding that this could have been me," Martin said about the perspective changing popular

Martin looks to the past but considers the events she sees taking place in America and says that she doesn't believe that Dr. Martin Luther King's Dream has McQueen was like a mother on been fulfilled but believes that as a nation we are now seeing why it needs to be fulfilled and has role model leaders she looks to for how to achieve that.

> "Nelson Mandela is one of my heroes," she said. "He was wrongly imprisoned for over a decade, was released and became president of a country that locked him away. He could have had so much hate built up but he turned that negativity into a positive outcome for himself, his country and his world."

> Martin plans to take what she has learned to become a business owner right here at home. Her dream is to get her cosmetology license, masseuse certification and open a spa in Gladewater. Martin's goals and disciplined work ethic enables her to advise her classmates and younger students on how to achieve successful futures.

> "When you think you are done, push yourself further," she said. "There is no finish line ahead of you, the only way not to achieve something is if you tell yourself you can't."

Patriot program set

An organization called America's Gentlemen Patriots will present a public "Call to Patriotism" program at 7 p.m. Thursday (Feb. 11) at the Yamboree Exhibit Building in Gilmer.

While it advocates "Godly values and civic values," it is neither a church movement nor necessarily a political one, Peden said. He explained that patriots have "got a little bit of anger stirred up (due to recent political events) and they don't know where to put it," but change "has to start on the community level."

For more information, contact Peden at 254-640-2656.

America's Gentlemen Patriots want to instill "these (Godly and civic) values back into our young people"--values once taught by the Boy Scouts of America over 100 years ago.
